Welcome to a fast-growing, dynamic and active community of scholars and writers! Our quest is for excellence in teaching, research, and service. We seek to engage students with a diverse range of literary works in a global and Indian context.

Our teaching mission is to encourage and motivate students towards a thorough and informed critical study of literature, and to make connections between reading and writing practices.

As part of the School of Humanities & Social Sciences, our faculty are especially interested in the exploration of language development, gender studies, translation and performance.

Vision

The English Literature program at SNU is uniquely tailored to the Indian student of literature in the 21st Century. We find that, today, students have to necessarily build bridges between their Indian identity, rooted in their mother tongues and a global identity founded on the English language. Therefore, our curriculum, which is both regional and international in orientation, exposes students to a wide variety of literary traditions across time and space. It places a premium on reading broadly but also deeply: students study the intimate relations between language, literary form, history, and culture, as well as discover and explore points of affinity and difference across borders of culture and chronology.
SNU Literature majors will acquire skills of self-reflexive critical thinking and historical literary analysis. It is crucial, in the current global context, that SNU students are trained to write in clear, articulate English and the Department requires several courses in Academic and Creative Writing and Communication that all students must take, learning in the process to communicate effectively both orally and in writing.

The unique structure of SNU's undergraduate curriculum provides students the flexibility to combine their English studies with minors in such diverse subjects as Economics, Mathematics, Physics, and Chemistry and even take courses in the School of Engineering. Because of this broad-based education, students graduating from the English program at SNU have a variety of career options not typically available to their counterparts at more traditional Indian universities. SNU English majors will have the opportunity to pursue higher studies leading to research and academic jobs at universities. However, many would have the training and breadth of knowledge for careers in print and electronic journalism, advertising and media in general, law and corporate positions involving writing and critical analysis such as investor relations and marketing. Students can also go on to pursue careers in the civil services, teaching and positions in non-governmental and cultural and artistic organizations.

Mission Statement

We take full responsibility of our students. As a Department, we believe in addressing not just the errors on the pages of assignments and test papers, but also the larger errors of history, circumstances and institutional practices that can erode an individual student’s ability to discover and fulfill his or her true human potential.

As part of a research-based university, all students are encouraged to engage with the department's areas of research. SNU’s English faculty have a wide-ranging and interdisciplinary research training, reinforced by diverse learning and teaching experience from Indian and international universities. Their current research interests are in fields like English Language Teaching,
Linguistics, 19th-Century Literature, Modernism, Women’s Studies, Speech and Pronunciation, Human Behaviour and Creative Writing.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

For Academic Year 2012-13 and Academic Year 2013-14, the Department offers admission to the following programs:

(1)  B.A. with major in English, *Honours optional (4 years)

(2)  Integrated Degree: B.A. with M.A. (5 years)

(3)  Undergraduate Minor in English

Some details about each program:

(1)  B.A. with major in English, *Honours optional (4 years)

Typically, the 4-year B.A. in English at SNU requires 120 credits, out of which 60 credits are from Foundation/Core courses and 18 are from Elective courses in English language and literature.

Students with a GPA of 8.0/10.0 may, in their final year, opt to write an undergraduate thesis under faculty supervision, to earn 12 additional credits and graduate with Honours.

Second Language Proficiency: if necessary, students writing an Undergraduate Honours thesis may be required to demonstrate a basic/reading knowledge of a language, other than English, that is relevant to their program of study and coursework.

Our B.A. with a major in English offers undergraduate students a unique learning experience, while working with internationally trained faculty and top artists and professionals. For talented students, the flexible structure of the English major allows individual students, with the guidance of a faculty advisor, to create a customized major program, tailored to specific interests and career initiatives.
Graduating students, with their highly refined skills in analysis and communication, will be prepared for a wide range of career objectives in publishing, journalism, education and writing.

(2) Integrated Degree: B.A. with M.A. (5 years)

B.A. (English) students at SNU have a unique option to study for an integrated B.A. and M.A. degree in 5 years, thus saving one year of their program time. In the third year of the B.A. program, students may declare their intention of studying for the combined degree, and proceed to attend graduate seminars and coursework.

This option also offers a special career-oriented opportunity in the form of internships and work-study schemes with well-established professionals and organizations in several fields.

(3) Minor in English

Students enrolled in an undergraduate program in any other department at SNU may opt to take a minor in English. The minor typically consists of 24 credits minimum (= 8 courses of 3 credits each). These courses may be University Wide Electives (UWE) in English, as well as English Language and Literature major and minor courses. Students may take 2 courses in an area of specialization, or take an extra elective along with the Senior Seminar in English Language and Literature.

CCC, UWE and Additional Course Categories

In addition to Foundation, Core and Elective courses under the Major and Minor options, all undergraduate students of the University also earn a certain number of required credits by taking courses from the following categories:

(a) CCC (Common Core Curriculum) courses offered by the university)

(b) UWE (University Wide Electives; courses so designated and offered by departments other than the Department of English)
(c) Senior Seminar in English/ Research Project
(d) Internship (as applicable)

CREDITS

REGISTERING FOR COURSES & DECLARING ENGLISH MINOR

All students must be correctly enrolled in the University, with no dues outstanding.
Before registering for courses, students are required to meet with the Department of English designated faculty advisors to discuss their plan of study and to ascertain relevance and availability of courses.

Students are encouraged to declare a minor in English as early in their program as possible. Typically, it is expected that students will begin to work towards an English minor from their 4th semester onwards.

Students who are unable to complete the minor within the duration of their undergraduate program may need to take an extra semester of study for the minor. In such cases, continuation of any scholarship or fee waiver granted for their regular course of study will be governed by the then prevailing rules of the University.

Current faculty advisors for undergraduate students are:

| Advisor for English Minors & for English Majors with Language specialization | Dr. Tulika Chandra |
| Advisor for English Majors with Literature specialization | Dr. Divya Saksena |

Our courses encourage our students to think broadly as well as deeply about issues related to Literary Studies and the English Language. We also motivate students to engage with the working logic of areas related to English Studies such as publishing, advertising, designing narratives and teaching.
