Fire Rainbows captured by V Harish, B Tech 3rd year student of Shiv Nadar University

The photograph of iridescent clouds captured by V Harish was published by the National Geographic in their website nationalgeographic.com. The rainbow clouds are a rare sight and Harish could manage to capture this moment from the top of the academic block of the University. Sharing his experience Harish said that he was indeed lucky to seize this spectacular phenomenon through his lenses and glad that it was published in the National Geographic.

For more details about the phenomena and the report visit:  