Local education programs on climate

The Young Thinkers Forum (YTF) of the Shiv Nadar University has created programs for school students on topics related to climate change, risk mitigation, and the adoption of impact reduction initiatives. On the occasion of Earth Day, a workshop for school students from different schools of Delhi-NCR was organized as part of the Young Environmentalist program, a flagship program of the YTF. The program is created to help students understand what it means to live sustainably and what they can do to reduce their carbon footprint.

Our young visitors took back a lot of information and discussed the growing issues of climate change with experts from the Centre for Environment Education (CEE) and HCL Foundation. The workshop was conducted by Ms Meera and Ms Gayatri from CEE who also engaged students in story telling, poster making and shared an engaging presentation about “Say No To Plastics”.
